ABOUT

An accredited coach with the College of Executive Coaching as well as the ICF, Irené has been working for over 10 years with executives and their teams to help them become star performers. She speaks to corporate groups and associations on a wide variety of leadership topics that focus on emotional intelligence and maximizing strengths and incorporates principles from psychology, neuroscience, mediation, hypnotherapy, and social, emotional and conversational intelligence. She has designed and delivered leadership retreats and workshops for high achievers in organizations that range from the Fortune 50 to startups. Having worked in both environments, she understands what it takes to succeed and get results in a variety of companies and industries. Regardless of size or function, Irené recognizes the power of leadership to impact everything from culture to engagement, retention and profits.

Irené works with companies to build individual and team leadership skills so they can achieve greater engagement, retention and productivity.

- Drive success by changing behavior
- Develop leadership skills in subject matter experts
- Empower individuals and teams to understand and maximize their unique talents
- Transform listening, communication and influencing skills
- Create high performing teams instead of groups of individual contributors
- Highlight workplace bullying and the devastating impact on culture

"Irené guided a fabulous coaching workshop at our GABA Women in Business event. All the participants were highly engaged and obtained great knowledge how to overcome procrastination. Thank you Irené for helping us to face our fears and create action plans."

-Barbara Kempen, President of GABA Los Angeles
